Please join us for a discussion on Terrorism in the workplace.

In these precarious times, with the not-so-distant daily threat of global and homegrown terrorism, adding to our uneasiness are workplace threats that are unfortunately becoming more common.

We may be more vulnerable now than ever before. On Long Island, we have been extraordinarily fortunate to have superior law enforcement officials do an excellent job keeping us safe.

However, events occurring throughout the United States and elsewhere in the world are forcing businesses to examine their security and awareness capabilities. Employers are now challenged to find ways to keep their business and their employees safe. How many times have we heard of employees or former employees, storming their workplace in deranged states, armed with weapons. Just last year, there were shootings in San Bernardino, California and Charleston, South Carolina, which showed just how vulnerable the workplace and even places of worship can be. In San Bernardino, 14 people were killed and 21 injured by attackers who opened fire at a company holiday party. In Charleston, a white supremacist opened fire on people working and praying in an historic black church.

Here on Long Island with such close proximity to New York City, workplace security cannot afford to be taken lightly. Are you prepared? Come learn what step your business should be taken to protect your employees. Experts like the professionals at Squad Security are uniquely qualified to handle these situations.

Joining us will be Congressman Peter King who has led the U.S. Homeland Security Committee; Police Commissioners from Nassau and Suffolk County, Thomas Krumpert and Timothy Sini and Michael Sapracione, founder of Squad Security.

Please RSVP to Matt Cohen at mcohen@longislandassociation.org

Congressman Peter T. King is a member of the Homeland Security Committee and Chairman of the Sub-Committee on Counterterrorism and Intelligence.

Michael D. Sapracione is the founder and owner of Squad Security Inc. and Squad Security LTD worldwide companies.
